

Speaking in Public can be stressful and give you sleepless nights

However some people have the knack of delivering polished presentations every single time.

There are 2 types of presentations, those which engage with you which are interesting, clear and relevant and those which are simply painful for all concerned.

I have good news and bad news, the bad news first, we were not taught these skills at school , but the good news is I can share this valuable information, so you master these skills.

Before I get started let me tell you how presenting helped me go to Hawaii first class on an all expenses paid luxury cruise. I was on the top deck playing chess improving my tan when an elderly gentleman said to me , "Young man" , I always like when I get called young man ! he went on to ask me , how many presentations did it take you to reach the qualification, as I have been coming on this trip for years ? I said less than 100, he smiled and said it took an average of 500 presentations to get these results normally, what is the secret? I said I am not 5 times smarter, just my presentations are 5 times more effective, I mastered this skill early on as I realise how important it was.

There's an old saying if you keep doing what you keep doing, you will keep getting what you keep getting, so if you want to increase your income, confidence and pride, learning this presenting skill is important.

Not many people know this but usually the best presenter does not always have the best product, service or business, they have just mastered the skill of speaking and presenting.

It can be frustrating when you and I see others who are less talented getting a head, simply because they are better speakers in public.

Everyone knows a confident speaker is like a magnet, attracting people around them like a bee round honey, now you have an opportunity to be the confident individual who gets this attention, and is popular amongst their peers which means you will get better results more easily and more often.

So what going to be easier for you, to continue getting nervous at the thought of speaking in public, losing money pride and credibility or spend a few hours with me and master this skill, For life.

You can master this skill a workshop in a safe environment or one to one coaching, so the information is tailored made to you.

Here is what others have said after the training
